Casey Ferri Joins CTK Estate Planning Practice Area

Casey N. Ferri has joined the Charlotte law firm of Conrad Trosch & Kemmy, P.A., where she will focus on estate planning, probate, and elder law. She was born and raised in South Carolina and moved back to Charlotte to be closer to family after attending law school in Florida. Prior to joining Conrad Trosch & Kemmy, Ms. Ferri ran her own solo practice in Matthews, NC.

"We are pleased to announce that Casey N. Ferri has joined Conrad Trosch & Kemmy, P. A. as our newest associate," said partner Michael Kemmy, who heads the firm's Estate Planning, Probate and Elder Law Division. "Casey is skilled in Elder Law and highly motivated to develop her practice. She is an excellent addition to our team."

A graduate of Winthrop University in South Carolina, Ms. Ferri earned her Bachelor of Arts degree in English Language and Literature. She studied abroad for a year at Edge Hill University, in Lancashire, England. Upon completion of her undergraduate degree, Ms. Ferri entered Stetson University Law School in Florida. She graduated with a concentration in Elder Law. While in law school, Ms. Ferri was the recipient of the William F. Blews Pro Bono Service award, as well as the Victor O. Wehle Award for excellence in trial advocacy.

Admitted to the North Carolina Bar in 2013, Ms. Ferri is a member of the Mecklenburg County Bar Association and the National Academy of Elder Law Attorneys. She is also an active member of the NC Bar Association, Elder and Special Needs Law Section where she currently serves as a Section Council Member and Newsletter Editor. She is a regular volunteer for NC Wills for Heroes, providing estate planning for our nation's first responders and military service members.

"Conrad Trosch & Kemmy has raised the bar in both integrity and quality representation. Our core values are closely aligned, and I look forward to providing personalized service to estate planning and elder law clients as a part of their team." Ms. Ferri said.
